Grades 9-12

Below is a list of common tasks that students need to do in a high school classroom.

Task	How do I do this?	Why is this important?
Sign in to a Chromebook	Sign in with Google username and password. Student username: studentid@students.fsd145.org (example = 123456789@students.fsd145.org) Student password: usually a student's birthdate (example = 02162006)	Chromebooks give access to all district educational resources.
Sign in to Clever	Use the Chrome browser to open the district Clever page. If the page doesn't open automatically, there should be a shortcut in favorites, or type in the URL directly -- https://clever.com/in/fsd145	Clever is a website portal that offers links to other websites. If students use the link in Clever, the student is often automatically signed in to the new website.
Sign in to Schoology	Click on the Schoology icon in Clever. If the page doesn't open automatically, there should be a shortcut in favorites, or type in the URL directly -- https://schoology.fsd145.org/	Schoology is the first place to check for assignments, due dates, and grades. Teachers will post activities by date and include links to resources. Assignments are often turned in through Schoology instead of collecting paper copies.
Check email	Click on the email icon in Clever. All students have an GMail account through the school district. If a student is using their district Chromebook, the email icon appears on the Clever dashboard.	Students should check their email for important announcements. Questions can be sent to teachers and staff.
Explore careers in Xello	Click on the Xello icon in Clever. All high school students have access to Xello by following the icon from the Clever dashboard.	Students can explore career pathways, complete an interest inventory, or set career goals.
Practice for the SAT	Click on the Method Test Prep icon in Clever. All high school students have access to Method Test Prep by following the icon from the Clever Dashboard.	Students can complete self-paced lessons, learn some test taking strategies, or even take practice tests to prepare for the SAT.
